July 2S, in his eighty-sixth year, was one of the most prominent Methodist laymen in southern Ohio. He was a medical graduate of the University of New York, and after practicing for twenty years at Aurora, Ind., entered the Union army as a surgeon, rendering most effective service until the close of the war, when he removed to Cincinnati and engaged successfully in business. For more than seventy years he was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and for most of that time carried important official responsibilities. He leaves a widow, three sous, and two married daughters. The Rev. Frederick W. Bourne, one of the most eminent preachers of the Bible Christian denomination, and three times president of its Conference, died at Forest Hill, England, July 26, the day after his seventy-fifth birthday. He had held almost every position of trust in that body, being editor, book steward, and treasurer of the Missionary Society. His Life of Billy Bray has been widely read throughout the Methodist world. He was an ardent advocate of the reunion of the Methodist sects, and was earnestly devoted to the cause of confederation among the Free Churches of Great Britain. For one year he was chairman of the Metropolitan Confederation. Mr. and Mrs. William A. Shelly and Miss Edna M. Grover, all under appointment as missionaries for work in Andes Conference, sailed from New York on the steamer Havana, Tuesday, Aug. 8. Mr. Shelly, who is...
