HE following are the somewhat scattered and miscel A laneous notes which I was able to make during a two years botanical trip. I found it quite impossible whilst travelling to make as thorough and complete observations as are really required to properly understand all the adaptations of a flower to insect-visitors; but as most of the forms have not hitherto been studied in their native haunts, the following may be of some interest. I endeavoured to collect every insect which I saw visiting the flowers, and brought home with me a numbered collection. I have to thank M. Henri de Saussure for his extreme kindness in naming for me all my Hymenoptera from Madagascar (about 60 species), many of which were new to science. Mr. L. Peringuey, Assistant Curator of the South African Museum, Cape Town, gave me also about 76 names most of...
