Co-operative Banks or Loan Associations receive deposits at stated times, and lend money for building and other purposes to members or stockholders. The amount paid in by stockholders, generally $1 a month on each share, constitutes the capital of the bank. The profits of the bank or association are derived from interest of money loaned, from premiums paid for the privilege...

Reviews

This book is definitely not simple to begin on studying but quite fun to see. I actually have read and that i am sure that i will gonna read through yet again once again in the foreseeable future. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
