He must get acquainted with the business men, and he cannot do this by staying at home all day, sitting in the rocking-chair. To apply the old proverb, People that have nothing to do are soon tired of their own company. At the end of the seventh year in school the boy knows that the following year he will have this study, among others, and should be encouraged to bring back all the data possible as to the business men he has talked to, geography or lay of the land, car lines, real estate values, stores, number and kind, banks, building loan associations, etc.; in other words, something to draw on to aid him and his...
